Dear Hiring Team,

Summit Portfolio's January investor letter set net revenue retention as a 2026 priority. At Horizon Analytics I restructured customer success into pooled and strategic tiers and moved NRR from ninety-eight to one hundred twelve per cent over eighteen months. That is the commercial operating work this COO role centres on.

I have owned the full operating rhythm at Horizon for four years: annual plan, monthly board pack, and quarterly investor sessions. ARR grew from six to eighteen million euros while gross margin improved nine points. I led a cost programme that saved one point two million euros annually without cutting engineering headcount — reallocating vendor spend and standardising procurement approvals instead.

I also partnered with our CEO on the twenty-two million euro Series B in 2023 and ran the data room schedule end to end. Investors cited clear unit-economics reporting and a credible hiring plan as factors in their decision. Before Horizon I was the first operations hire at BrightPath, where I cut implementation time in half through playbook standardisation and built finance, support, and implementation teams from zero to thirty-five people.

People operations is another area I would bring to Summit: at Horizon I introduced compensation bands, twice-yearly performance cycles, and manager training that supported forty net new hires in 2024 without increasing regrettable attrition.

I am based in Amsterdam and can work hybrid as required. Summit's portfolio stage matches the scale band where I have operated since 2021. Thank you for considering my application.

Kind regards,

Morgan Blake
